REMINDER: Montana’s prison population is at capacity and is projected to continue to increase.

Expanding capacity to address projected growth will cost the state tens to hundreds of millions of dollars over nine years.
REMINDER: The number and proportion of arrests involving revocations/violations/FTAs have increased significantly.

REMINDER: District court case filings have gone up sharply in the last four years. Almost half of the increase appears to be driven by a rise in felony drug possession filings.

Source: Montana District Court Case Filings and Dispositions, 2005-2014. Cases include new offenses and “re-openings.”
REMINDER: The time it takes for a case in district court to reach disposition from various stages has increased.

*Time calculations are based on the "oldest" filing for each unique filing. To attempt to control for absconded delayed cases, those with a time to disposition over 500 days were excluded. Revocation proceedings also were excluded for this analysis.
REMINDER: Montana’s jail incarceration population increased significantly in recent years, and is the highest of its neighbors. Jail length of stay is above average.

Key Challenges

Growing Impact of Substance Use. Drug use presents a growing challenge for Montana’s criminal justice system. Between 2009 and 2015, there was a 62-percent increase in arrests for drug offenses. Stakeholders report drug use and insufficient treatment as being leading causes of violations and revocations.

High Rates of Recidivism. The primary driver of costs and growth in Montana’s criminal justice system, including the growth in arrests, alternative facility admissions, and prison admissions, is people who are cycling back for technical violations or new crimes.

Rising Cost of Prisons and Jails. Prisons and jails in Montana are at capacity. The statewide jail population has risen 67 percent between 2011 and 2013. Unless the state acts, the prison population is projected to continue to increase 17 percent by 2025, requiring tens, if not hundreds, of millions of dollars in new spending.

Goals of Justice Reinvestment in Montana

- Avert spending associated with growth in prison and jail populations
- Make the pretrial decision-making process more informed and effective in order to increase public safety
- Improve access to and the quality of programs funded by taxpayers to reduce recidivism
- Reinvest in strategies to hold offenders accountable and increase public safety
- Improve services and resources for victims of crime
- Modernize the parole process
- Ensure the sustainability of data-driven policies and evidence-based practices
Overview

01 Key Challenges
02 Goals
03 Policy Options
04 Next Steps
1. Establish the use of pretrial risk assessment tools and supervision.

2. Revamp the presentence investigation report so that it is less time intensive and more structured and objective and encourages the use of evidence-based practices in sentencing.

3. Eliminate mandatory minimum jail sentences for second offense driving with a suspended license and third offense petty theft.

4. Reclassify traffic offenses, other than driving under the influence, as civil or citation-only offenses.

17. Improve the quality of and access to batterer’s intervention programs.
Policy Options on Oversight, Quality Improvement, and Improving Standards

18. Create a centralized, interagency oversight body to guide and track the implementation of justice reinvestment legislation.

19. Require the Department of Corrections to report annual data on the impact of implementing justice reinvestment legislation.

20. Require the Department of Corrections to regularly validate its risk assessment tool.

21. Require the Department of Corrections to receive ongoing training in risk assessment and evidence-based practices.

22. Establish program standards and authorize the quality assurance unit within the Department of Corrections to evaluate state-funded programs and enforce program standards.

23. Require the Department of Corrections’ probation and parole interventions and incentives grid to follow evidence-based practices.
24. Enable the Department of Corrections to effectively manage and collect legal financial obligations, even beyond a supervision term.

25. Remove barriers to securing employment for people on supervision.
